

United Kingdom

Mr Alasdair Mace is a Senior Consultant Ear, Nose and Throat Specialist at Charing Cross and St Mary's Hospitals in central London, UK. His private practice is based in Harley Street and North London. He is fully accredited with the General Medical Council and The Royal College of Surgeons of England. Mr Mace was Head of Speciality for ENT at Imperial College Healthcare NHS Trust from 2013 until 2017 and is now the Lead Clinician for Head and Neck Cancer. He is also an Honorary Senior Lecturer at Imperial College London and an Honorary Consultant at The Royal Marsden Hospital, The Royal National Throat, Nose and Ear Hospital, University College Hospital and Chelsea and Westminster Hospital. He has received an NHS Clinical Excellence Award. He provides expert specialist management for all common Ear, Nose and Throat problems. In particular he has a sub-specialist interest in disorders of the throat and voice, lumps in the head and neck, including the salivary glands and thyroid gland, and nasal or sinus problems

Contact Me
Email Friend